A FAMILY FOR LIFE TIME

Would you not like to bring a bundle of joy in your family?

Adoption is a process and that is for life long one. The love and understanding between the adopted child and the adoptive parents strengthen through a continuous process of nurturing. Adoption not only provides full opportunities to a child to bloom into a complete human being, but also gives a chance to the adoptive parents to experience parenthood in its most beautiful form.

The bond of love between a parent and a child is a result of nurturing and not just an outcome of biological birth.

Adoption is based on the principle that the child should grow up in a family environment in an atmosphere of love and affection. Where a child is deprived of her/his family environment permanently, the adoptive family is then considered the best environment for the child. The family is the only natural environment for the growth as well as well-being of the child. The parents have the primary responsibility for the upbringing and development of the child.

The Government of India always considers adoption as the best non-institutional support for rehabilitation of orphan, abandoned and surrendered children who become homeless and whose separation from their biological parents cannot be avoided for various reasons. In pursuance of its constitutional mandate, the Government of India has evolved a National Policy for the Welfare of Children.

CARA since 1990

Central Adoption Resource Authority (CARA), an autonomous body under the Ministry of Women & Child Development works as a nodal body in the matter of adoptions in the country. CARA was established on 28th June 1990 by the then Ministry of Welfare through a Resolution. Subsequently, a Task Force Committee, constituted by the then M/o Welfare with Justice P. N. Bhagwati as Chairman, submitted its recommendation on 7th August 1993 for the issuance of a set of guidelines by the Govt. for the regulation of the inter-country adoption. The Committee in its recommendations favoured for CARA playing a pivotal role in inter-country adoption with an autonomous status.

Pursuant to a decision of the Union Cabinet dt: 2nd July 1998, the then Ministry of Social Justice & Empowerment conferred the autonomous status on CARA on 18.3.1999 by registering it as a Society under the Societies Registration Act, 1860. It was designated as Central Authority by the Ministry of Social Justice & Empowerment on 17.7.2003 for the implementation of the Hague Convention on Protection of Children & Cooperation in respect of Inter-country Adoption (1993). The Ministry of Women & Child Development has of late been mandated to look after the subject matters 'Adoption' & 'Juvenile Justice (Care & Protection of Children) Act, 2000' pursuant to 16th Feb. 2006 notification of Govt. of India regarding reallocation of the Business.

The Convention on the Rights of the Child adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations on 20 November 1989 and ratified by India recognizes that each child should grow up in a family environment, in an atmosphere of happiness, love and understanding and a child, by reason of his physical and mental immaturity, needs special safeguards and care, including appropriate legal protection, before as well as after birth. It further states that in all actions concerning children, whether undertaken by public or private social welfare institutions, courts of law, administrative authorities or legislative bodies, the best interest of the child shall be a primary condition. In fact, the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, 1989 recognizes family as the fundamental group of the society and the natural environment for growth and well being of all its members and particularly children.
